

Indiana Construction Association

About ICA

Indiana Construction Association (ICA) is a statewide trade association dedicated to promoting opportunity and excellence in Indiana's construction industry. ICA maintains affiliations with two major national associations, the Associated General Contractors of America and the American Road and Transportation Builders Association.

ICA is the largest and oldest construction industry trade association in Indiana. Our organization speaks with a voice of nearly 300 corporate members, including the biggest names in Hoosier contractors – both those who build vertically and those who build horizontally. ICA represents and serves the needs of Indiana's construction industry, including non-residential building, highway, heavy and utility contractors, subcontractors, material and equipment suppliers and professional service providers.
